12 November, 2009 | By Katherine Rushton

BBC2 has ordered a second series of Monty Halls' Great Escape from Tigress Productions.

The marine biologist will head to the Outer Hebrides to become a countryside ranger on remote archipelago the Uists, where he will combine running his own craft with conservation projects.

Knowledge commissioning executive Nick Shearman ordered the 6 x 60-minute series with head of docs Charlotte Moore, ahead of tx in 2010.

Martin Pailthorpe and Ewen Thomson will produce and direct and Dick Coulthurst is the executive producer.
