

Broadcast

Tigress to make all four docs for Nature Shock run

11 June, 2009 | Updated: 11 June, 2009 7:00 am | By Michael Rosser

Tigress Productions is to make all four films of Five's latest series of its Nature Shock doc strand.

Bethan Corney, commissioning editor for factual, has ordered 4 x 60-minute shows from the Bristol indie for the strand's third run.

The first new film is Cannibal Hippos, about a herd in Uganda. Luke Wiles will produce and direct.

The Whale that Ate the Great White unravels how a killer whale entered a shark territory, causing a mass exodus. Jonnie Hughes will produce and direct.

Elephant Death Pact investigates the deaths of five of elephants found seemingly untouched in West Bengal. Director/producer is Martin Morrison.

Finally, Death Fog will tell of a previously unknown phenomenon where carbon dioxide forms in the Earth's crust and destroys everything in its path. Simon Kerfoot is director and producer.

The series producer is Jo Shinner and executive producer is Andrew Jackson. Broadcast is scheduled for late 2009.